Construction of a game:

A TREASURE HUNT INSIDE THE MUSEUM

For this activity we have chosen “the MArRC”, the National Archaeological Museum of Reggio Calabria, where visitors can admire a lot of collections concerning the history of our city and region from prehistoric times to the Roman age.

The construction of a game to play inside this site and the opportunity to transform a visit to the museum into a true TREASURE HUNT have aroused a great curiosity about “the treasures” on display and have stimulated our students to gather more information about them. They have worked in groups performing different and specific tasks.

INSTEAD IT WAS USED TO BURY A CHILD.

IT IS VERY HUGE
AND WEARS A LONG RED TUNIC
WHAT YOU CAN SEE IS JUST THE HEAD, THE FEET
AND A HAND.

THEY WERE TWO
AND THEY ARE STILL TOGETHER
LOOKING AT US FROM THE NIGHT SKY.
THEY ARE PATRONS OF ATHLETES AND SAILORS.

IT IS A BEAUTIFUL STATUE OF A STANDING NUDE YOUNG MAN THAT REPRESENTS THE IDEA OF YOUTH.
ORIGINALLY HE STOOD WITH HIS LEFT FOOT FORWARD
LOOKING STRAIGHT AHEAD.

THEY WERE USED TO TRANSPORT
LIQUIDS OR FOOD
IN THE TRANSPORT BOATS.

IT WAS VERY BIG AND BELONGED TO A SPECIES OF LARGE WILD CATTLE THAT INHABITED
ASIA, EUROPE AND NORTH AFRICA

1. LEARNING BY DOING

HE COULD BE A MAN OF LETTERS OR A THINKER AND HIS HEAD

This group of students is searching on the Web for pictures, information and historical curiosities about some interesting objects they have already seen in the museum of Magna Greacia. All these materials will help them to create great “treasure hunt clues”.

2. ARTISTS AT WORK

These students are engaged in the creation of “a piece of art”, a vase to fill with sweets and small chocolates that will be “the treasure hunt prize”.

Under an experienced ceramist's guidance, these "budding artists" will have a more direct approach to the art world and will discover how the ancient Greeks made pots from clay.

3. LET'S HAVE FUN!

And these are the players of the TREASURE HUNT. Their visit to the museum is the occasion to play the game inside the site. Divided into two teams, the students are searching for the clues hidden along the exhibition itinerary. Each clue contains a riddle whose solution tells the players where to find the next clue. The final clue leads to the treasure.

It was very big and belonged to a species of large wild cattle that inhabited Asia, Europe and North Africa

They were two and they are still together looking at us
from the night sky.
They are patrons of athletes and sailors.

It is very huge and wears a long red tunic. What you can see is just the head, the feet and a hand.

It seems just a foot with a sandal that is part of a large statue.
Instead it was used to bury a child.

He could be a man of letters
or a thinker and his head,
with a very long curly beard and wavy hair, was found in the strait of Messina.

It is a beautiful statue of a standing nude young man that represents the idea of youth. Originally, he stood with his left foot forward and his arms at his sides, looking straight ahead.

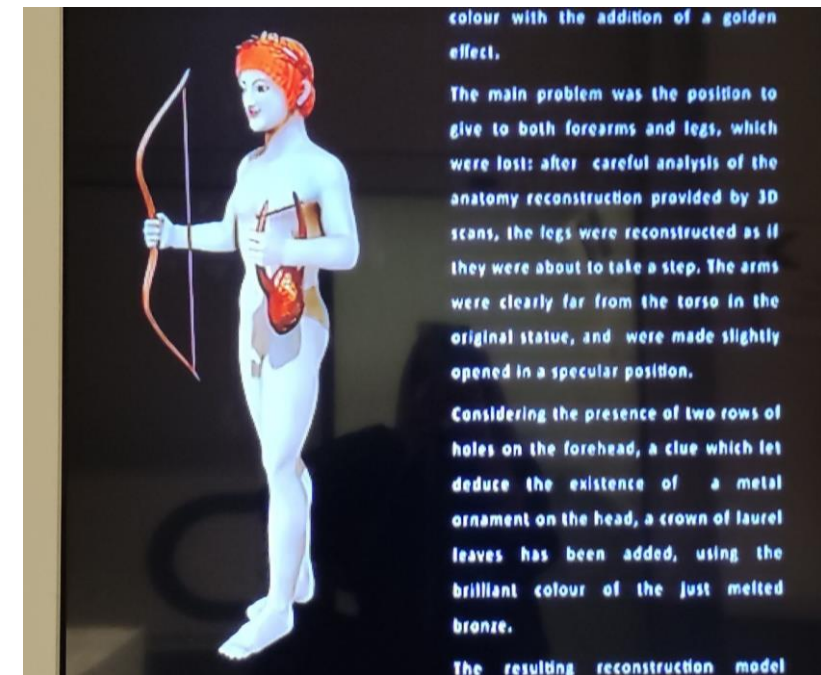

They were used to transport liquids or food in the transport boats.
